In the estate of Amoreira rises, little more than 100 meters of the walls of Quinta, Monte of Amoreira, which, today renewed and restored for the agriculture-tourism, doesn't stop being a note remarkable of the topography of the hills alentejanos.

Here we found more some fourth decorations well to the taste alentejano, more modest than the one of the inn, but equally gentle, more Cheap, not leaving, however, of in them to stand out the comfort.

This space is already today prepared, with a group of rooms properly equipped, for meetings, banquets and parties as well as for lively family meetings.

Monte of Amoreira, probably abandoned in the beginning of the century, it was remodeled in 1910, is tended, and then, built a cattle stable, grocery stores for cereals and the caretaker's house.

Monte do Álamo is the result of a wish to recover and maintain a country house in a traditional rural environment. Almond, carob and olive trees among other autochthonous shrubs and plants involve you in the scents and colours of a typical Algarve farm where the produce can still be considered part of Algarve's richness. With the least impact in mind, we recovered and adapted the vestiges of past farming activities. A mere kilometre away from the ancient and historical Tavira, you can enjoy a privileged panoramic view of the city and sea to the south, and rolling hills to the north.
